

REMARKS

The Examiner in the June 4, 2004 Advisory Action does not further explain or respond to the arguments set forth in the April 28, 2004 Amendment Pursuant to 37 C.F.R. §1.116. The Examiner indicates that the Amendment does not place the application in condition for allowance "because: Lehtinen in view of Grant teaches the invention as clearly explained in the final action".

It is submitted that the Examiner has not explained how "Grant teaches pocket-size user interface for internet browser terminals which comprises preprogrammed keys to download web page (fig. 5, col. 5, lines 41-67)". It is noted that in the referenced portion of Grant of column 5, lines 41-67, various functions provided by the keys of group 62 are explained, but none of those functions clearly teaches how a URL is accessed with any of the keys in group 62. It is submitted that a person of ordinary skill in the art would not consider the disclosure in the referenced portion of Grant in column 5, lines 41-67, to teach "consistently associating the input key with the encoded information identifying a respective linked page during a display period such that actuation of the input key during the display period requests the respective linked page for download from the remote source" as recited in independent claim 1 and 14. If the Examiner persists in the stated grounds of rejection, it is requested that he specifically explain how Grant et al teaches to a person of ordinary skill in the art the aforementioned claimed subject matter utilizing the navigating group of keys 62 in the context of downloading a web page.

Early allowance of the application in view of the foregoing remarks is respectfully requested.

To the extent necessary, Applicants petition for an extension of time under 37 C.F.R. §1.136.
